Breakthru Beverage Group celebrates $65 million contribution to Step Up For Students Scholarship Program

By Paul Soost

Breakthru Beverage Florida, one of the largest distributors of wines, spirits and non-alcoholic beverages in the state, celebrated its $65 million contribution to Step Up For Students at the company’s Florida headquarters in Ft. Lauderdale on Tuesday, May 3.

Breakthru’s donation provided more than 11,100 scholarships to K-12 schoolchildren from low-income families.

This is the fifth year Breakthru Beverage Florida, formerly known as Premier Beverage, has contributed to Step Up, a nonprofit organization that administers the Florida Tax Credit Scholarship Program. The program is funded by corporations that receive dollar-for-dollar tax credits for their contributions.

“Quality education can open the doors to endless possibilities. Breakthru is proud to play a role in providing opportunities for financially disadvantaged children in Florida through our support of Step Up For Students,” said Bob Drinon, Breakthru Beverage Group South Region president. “We hope that more children will have the opportunity to learn in an environment that best meets their academic needs.”

More than 78,000 low-income students are using income-based Step Up scholarships for the 2015-16 school year, with tuition scholarships valued up to $5,677 per student. More than 1,600 private schools statewide participate in the Florida Tax Credit Scholarship Program.

“This program is about empowering people to have choices. It’s about empowering low-income families to be able to match their child with the learning environment that best meets their needs,” said Doug Tuthill, Step Up president. “We are so grateful to have Breakthru Beverage partnering with our mission to provide equal opportunity for all people. We couldn’t do this without their support and generosity.”

Denisha Merriweather, a Step Up scholarship alumna, was a featured speaker at the event. Step Up helped Merriweather attend the school of her choice. "Without the scholarship, I probably would have dropped out of school," said Merriweather. "Today, I am proud to say, after all the challenges I faced, I am the first person in my family, my whole family, to graduate from college." Today, she is a college graduate and is continuing her education to earn her master’s degree.

Step Up For Students achieves coveted four-star rating and perfect score from Charity Navigator

By Lisa A. Davis

For the fifth consecutive year and 10th time overall, Step Up For Students, the nonprofit organization that helps administer Florida’s Tax Credit and Gardiner Scholarship programs, has achieved the coveted four-star rating for sound fiscal management and commitment to accountability and transparency from Charity Navigator, the nation’s largest independent evaluator of charities.

“Only 6 percent of the charities we rate have received at least five consecutive four-star evaluations, indicating that Step Up For Students outperforms most other charities in America,” wrote Charity Navigator President and CEO Michael Thatcher in a congratulatory letter in April. “This ‘exceptional’ designation from Charity Navigator differentiates Step Up For Students from its peers and demonstrates to the public it is worthy of their trust.”

Shortly after, Charity Navigator changed its rating system and notified Step Up For Students about even better news: It has received a perfect score in the rating system that focuses on an organization’s financial strength, fiscal accountability and transparency.

Step Up is one of only 51 charities nationwide to garner a perfect score, and one of only three in the education sector. According to Charity Navigator, less than 1 percent of the thousands of charities monitored receive the perfect score.

Step Up For Students donors are rising to the challenge of our 2016-17 goal of $559 million as we seek to fund scholarships for roughly 91,000 low-income students for the upcoming school year. Pledges through May 6 total $388.6 million, which equates to an overwhelming $3.2 million per day that has been committed to the program by the corporate community. These commitments underscore the dedication our corporate partners have for providing quality education to Florida’s underprivileged children.

Meet Deondre Pride

BY JEFF BARLIS

When Deondre Pride transferred to Victory Christian Academy as a junior in high school, it took him all of three days to come to a conclusion. He told his mom, "This is not the school for me." Mom wasn’t having it.

"There was no conversation," Deanna Joyner recalled. "When he spoke, I ended it."

Deanna, a single mom, had transferred four of her five children from their neighborhood school in Polk County to Victory Christian in large part because Deondre, her oldest son, was struggling.

The move was only possible because of the Florida Tax Credit Scholarship, a program that gives low-income parents the ability to access private schools that may be a better fit for their children. In Deondre’s case, it changed the course of his life.

Before the scholarship and the new school, Deanna said, "Deondre kind of got lost in the cracks."

At 6-foot-2 and 215 pounds, Deondre was a rising star at defensive end for his local public high school – the only job he was good at. But at Victory, things were different.

At his old school, Deondre would serve an in-school suspension if he got in trouble. No classes. Just sit there all day.

"He wasn’t mature," Deanna said. "Big boy, big size, big voice, but he wasn’t mature. He’s always had his hand held to a certain degree."

Sometimes he didn’t bother to show up for class at his old school. Other times he didn’t take notes, follow instructions or stay awake.

"As long as I’m good in football I don’t have to worry about doing this work," Deondre recalled thinking.

At his old school, Deondre would serve an in-school suspension if he got in trouble. No classes. Just sit there all day.

"Not at VCA."

"I kind of was trying to get you out of here," Deondre said, "they try to get you in here."

The headmaster at VCA, Karla Collins, had known Deondre’s father, Eugene Pride, and Deanna since they were teenagers. Both were students who struggled in high school.

Deanna called herself a “late-bloomer” who once juggled four jobs in order to get a master’s degree, become a teacher, and give her children a better life. She watched Deondre carefully in high school and feared he was not headed down the right road.

But with Collins’ hands-on approach, there was no chance of Deondre falling through the cracks.

"He’s in a fishbowl here," Collins said. "He can’t hide."

Deondre sensed all of this in his first three days and came up with a plan to go back to his former school.

"I would always come in the morning (to VCA) with the attitude like I don’t want to be here at all," he said. "I decided to do whatever I’ve got to do to get kicked out of this school for failing."

Collins recognized a familiar pattern.

"It’s easier to start over than to deal with your issues," she said, "and we just make them deal with their issues."

That kind of attention is one of the biggest differences between schools with enrollments of 460 versus 1,500.

Deondre was never taken out of classes at VCA. If he got in trouble, football coach Tommy Lewis would cut his playing time.

"It makes you learn," Deondre said.

The importance of academics was reinforced when high-profile college football programs started recruiting Deondre.

One week he would beam to his friends about a call from a coach at a powerhouse school. The next week the same coach would call back to say Deondre was no longer being recruited because of grades.

"It was heartbreaking," Deondre said.

By the end of his junior year, a motivated Deondre had a 3.0 GPA and was a force at outside linebacker on Victory Christian’s state champion football team.

Late in the school year, he met with a football coach from Coffeyville, a community college in Kansas. Deondre was offered a scholarship on the spot.

"It was just like, ‘Whew! Joy and everything, just so uplifting,’" he said. "It felt amazing."

Fast forward nearly a year and Deondre has a 3.85 GPA in a senior year that has been a model of focus.

In a few weeks he will become the first in his family to graduate from high school and attend college.

Sometimes Deondre thinks about all the ways in which his graduation could have been derailed. He thinks about his father, uncle and cousins. Why weren’t they able to get to college?

"I know for a fact if I had stayed at (his former school) I would not be talking about going to college," Deondre said. "It probably would have been like, ‘I don’t know if I’m going to go to school or go hang out on the corner.’"

Deondre said a lot of his friends in Lake Wales are that way.

With feelings of luck, gratitude and accomplishment, there’s no getting the smile off of Deondre’s face these days. His dreams of playing college football and studying agriculture will soon be reality.

He likes to tell his story to younger student athletes at Victory Christian. He likes to impart the biggest lesson he learned — academics come before athletics.

"It’s been a journey," he said. "Just being here turned me into a man."

It was all part of Deanna’s plan. Her son, who used to be obsessed with getting football scholarship offers from Division-1 schools, is now a serious student.

"It doesn’t matter if it’s D-1, D-2 or D-3," she said. "What matters is de-gree.”
